The public is invited to a potluck dinner at Moore Auditorium. SERC will provide drinks, cookies, plates, and utensils. People should bring a dish to share with a crowd.

Saturday, May 14 7 pm Schoodic Series Lecture: Birds of Schoodic

After the potluck, Rich MacDonald of the Natural History Center in Bar Harbor will give an illustrated presentation on the birds of Acadia and Schoodic Point. Rich is a birder and naturalist and will share his knowledge of the spring travels of birds to and through our area.

Sunday, May 15 6:30 am Mini Bird-a-thon

Rich and other birders will lead a mini bird-a-thon around Schoodic Point, looking for as many species of birds they can spot. The public is invited to come along and help look for birds from mudflats to mountaintops. Binoculars strongly recommended.

Join us at Moore Auditorium for Bagels and Birds. We will review the morning's findings and plan for a walk to Schoodic Head after a brunch of coffee, juice, fruit, and breakfast treats. Open to the public with a suggested $5/person donation.

End the birding weekend with a walk from Moore Auditorium on the SERC campus to the top of Schoodic Head, in search of shorebirds, songbirds, and birds of prey.
